NEWS AND EVENTS

We are delighted to announce the formation of the UK Clinical Development Working Groups.

It is hoped that the results from this work will inform about the potential for drugs to be used to prevent cancer development in models developed to mimic PHTS in people.

It is hoped that this improved understanding generated from the study will help to develop better ways to more consistently develop treatments for people with PHTS in the future.

We hope that everyone is safe and well and our thoughts go out to all of our contacts across the world during this difficult time.

We are also supporting all our grant holders and researchers to progress their work where possible during these challenging times.

We would like to thank our grant recipients and researchers who continue to support our work.
